NEW FARM PRICE BATTLE IN SIGHT

and Calls for Lower Ceiling on Agriculture.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 20—A battle over farm prices is being fought today following an appeal by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard for an end to the price control program reversing his previous position, urged farmers in a address last night to provision in the price ceiling ceilings of less than 100 per cent of parity. The prices are designated to be equivalent to that of a year ended, usually 1909-14. The secretary's new stand was challenged quickly by Chairman Farmer (D-S) of the house agriculture committee, who said: "Friends of the farmers will oppose any such change in the price law. Mr. Wickard and Mr. Henderson (Price Administrator Leon Henderson) would do farmers, consumers and the nation a real service if they would do something about cutting down on the margins and profits that middlemen and others make on farm products." In Chicago, Earl C. Smith, vice president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, expressed doubt a plan for applying price ceilings to livestock could be devised. As the same time, he added that farmers of the midwestern region most likely would not object to removal of the 110 per cent limitation, and substituting for it a provision that would restrict the placing of any ceiling below that necessary to assure an average parity price return during the particular seasonal marketing period. In urging its repeal, Wickard said the 110 per cent limitation was being used by many other groups "to prove that farmers are asking for more than their fair share." He asserted the struggle against inflation was endangered because of "unwillingness of each economic group to accept controls unless at the same time controls are placed on others." He called upon farmers to lead the way toward greater stability of prices by giving up the 110 per cent parity limitation. This would mean that the government could set ceiling prices at any level it might see fit from parity upward. Outbreak of Cholera Reported in Jap Area CHUNGKING, Aug. 20—The Chinese central news reported today that between 3,000 and 4,000 persons had died of cholera in Japanese occupied Tientsin, in western Yunnan province, where Jap forces penetrated southwest China after their conquest of Burma. Meanwhile, in eastern China, Chinese dispatches said, the military position had been stabilized further by Chinese recapture of Wenchow and the widening to 60 miles of the gap between Jap forces seeking to strike from east and west toward each other along the Kiangsi railway. Ohio Among States In New Gas Rationing Plan By The Associated Press WASHINGTON, Aug. 20—Ohio definitely is among the states which New England senators and representatives will ask federal officials to include in the gasoline rationing program, Representative Rogers, Republican of Massachusetts told the house yesterday. Federal officials said that gasoline rationing, under consideration for the midwest for some time to ease eastern shortage, would not be as severe in Ohio as in the east where the basic allowance is about four gallons a week for each automobile. ASHLEY MEETING The Ashley Townsend club will meet in the township hall tonight. Supper will be served before the meeting. Headphones connected to a radio receiver to be strapped to an animal's back have been invented for dogs by a Los Angeles man.

RUBBER SITUATION PROBE PROGRESSES Baruch Committee Advancing Study of Problem. By The Associated Press WASHINGTON, Aug. 20—The three-man investigation of the nation's rubber situation was reported today to have been inquiring into legal aspects covering possible drastic steps to conserve tires. Bernard Baruch, chairman of the committee appointed by President Roosevelt two weeks ago, conferred recently with Attorney General Biddle and the latter's top legal aid, Assistant Solicitor General Oscar Cox. Cox is not only an outstanding expert on presidential wartime authority, but probably knows a good deal about United Nations rubber requirements through his work with the lend-lease administration.

Among the basic questions which some observers believe were discussed by the special committee and the justice department officials were: 1. How far the President could go using his war powers as Chief Executive, and how far he might go using his authority as commander-in-chief. 2. The possible need for new legislation, or executive orders. These questions were believed to have arisen in connection with theoretical proposals such as national speed limits for all rubber-tired vehicles, requisitioning of automobiles out of tires limitations on use of automobiles, and redistribution of available rubber-tired equipment so as most efficiency to serve war needs.

was recommended generally. Violators of the dim-out order will be subject to a year in jail or a $5,000 fine, or both, or exclusion from the western defense command.

PACIFIC COAST DIMS LIGHTS FOR DURATION

Precaution Against Enemy Raiders Ordered.

By The Associated Press
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20—Booming wartime climes the length of America's Pacific coast dimmed bright lights for the duration last night under a military order designed to blot out a back-dro of glare against which lurking enemy submarines could silhouette shipping. The shadow of war blanketed a coastal strip at places 150 miles wide from Canada to Mexico—affecting nine million persons in 100,000 square miles. Every light which faced the ocean or threw a glow into the sky was ordered dimmed or shaded. Most outdoor lights were extinguished altogether. Night baseball and other outdoor floodlight sports were banned. The Pacific coast league turned to day and twilight baseball. Cities affected included Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, Sacramento, San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles, and San Diego. Motorists in sections near the ocean had to turn out their normal driving lights and proceed cautiously with parking lights. A top speed of 20 miles an hour

PAVING WAY FOR INVASION

Services of Supply in London Getting Vast Stores of Materials Together.

J. WES GALLAGHER (Wide World) — A war correspondent, a stock exchange agent, a grocery store manager, a railroad agent and at least one man who is helping the Allies pull off one of the most important jobs in the world is charged with the task of paving the way for invasion with millions of tons of war supplies.

American production accomplished the first miracle of the war. It is up to Lee and his staff to accomplish the second by seeing that every ton of material gets across the submarine-infested Atlantic to the right place at the right time.

Technical Skill Drafted
To do this the army has been some of the best technical brains from civilian life for the S.O.S. in Britain.

Men who used to work in plush offices with a half dozen secretaries from 10 to 4, taking two hours for lunch, now sit in camp chairs before wooden desks with sandwiches for lunch and candles for light from 8 a. m. until midnight.

One of these is former Governor William Tudor of Gardner, Maine. Gardner has one son in the navy submarine service, and another in the artillery and is himself an airforce liaison officer attached to the S.O.S.

A private pilot in civilian life, Lt. Col. Gardner would prefer a diving assignment deep to his 30 years.

The army, however, has drawn upon his experience as a lieutenant in the War I and as chairman of the board of the Pacific Coast Co. of Seattle, which concerns itself with cement manufacturing, railroad and ship.

Stock Exchange Official
On the same floor in S.O.S. headquarters is Colonel Charles E. Salzman, a 1925 graduate of West Point who dropped out of the army in 1935 to work on the New York Stock Exchange and rose to its vice presidency by 1940.

"I'm on leave from the Stock Exchange and it is just like coming home to do this work," he declared.

Charged with saving shipping space by supplying as many army needs as possible from goods in Britain is ex-scholarship boy Colonel Douglas McKeechie of Boston and a former director of purchasing for a nationally known grocery chain.

"My job is just about the same as it was in civilian life although the hours are longer," McKeechie asserted.

Lee's technical aides were able to save more than 300,000 tons of shipping on one item recently. It was estimated that it would take more than 400,000 tons of shipping to supply the finished article from the United States but only 85,000 tons of shipping if the raw materials were sent and the article built in England.

One of the key men of the S.O.S. is Colonel Norman A. Ryan of Seattle, who presides in the transport department.

Handles Rail Problems
Gray haired and round faced, Ryan used to be general manager of the western lines of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad.

"My job is identical with the one I had at home. Railroading is pretty much the same the world over and if things don't go right it will be nobody's fault but my own," he said.

Reporters seeking information for a story like this talk to public relations officer Major Joseph Phillips, former managing editor of Newsweek.

Some men might have trouble running the S.O.S. staff of port red tape cutters but their brisk and brisk Major General Lee let them know exactly what was what at the first staff conference when a few officers were two or three minutes late.

With a chilly glance he surveyed the room and announced: "Gentlemen, when I call a conference for 9 o'clock I mean 9 o'clock and not 9:01. Please remember that."

P. S.—All the colonels and majors remembered.

"MUZZLE" ROOSTERS
By International News Service
AUSTIN, Tex.—It's against the law for a cock to crow in San Augustine. It's just a gag, of course, to bring out the County U. S. D. A. drive for infertile eggs. The mayor of San Augustine has issued a proclamation forbidding any cock to crow within city limits "except such cock bird be confined in a pen or yard individually or with one or more others of his kind, and that the owner of the bird shall confine, should not permit the entry of the female of the species that may or may not be producing eggs which may reach the kitchens and pantries of our city."

URGES NEW UTILITY RATE SETTING PLAN

NELSON ACTS ON SHUTDOWNS

Acts To Forestall Production Lag Due to Lack of Materials.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20—Prompt action to forestall any war production shutdowns due to lack of materials appeared imminent today in consequence of Donald M. Nelson's newly announced "get tough" policy.

The production chief was expected to place his personal authority throughout the country to issue "quickie" priority ratings to provide needed small quantities of materials or parts. Thus holders of war contracts threatened with stoppage or curtailment of output because of an interruption in the flow of materials or a breakdown of machinery readily could obtain materials needed to keep going.

Informed officials who requested that they not be quoted by name said such a plan, if adopted, undoubtedly would put strict limits on the amount of materials at the disposal of regional officers.

Union Leaders Called. Eighteen officials of A. F. of C. and C. I. O. metal fabricating union were invited by the war production board to a conference here Monday at which raw material shortages will be discussed. The economic outlook, published by the C. I. O., said shortages due to inefficient management by the steel industry had caused numerous plants to shut down.

Nelson made it clear yesterday

U. S. TO TRAIN MORE RANGERS

Men in Dieppe Raid Will Serve as Instructors of Other Troops.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The American Rangers who fought with the Canadians, British Commandos and Fighting French in yesterday's spectacular raid on the Dieppe area of France will teach their slashing rough-and-tumble tactics to still more American fighting men.

This is on the authority of Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, who told a press conference today.

"Our participation in the Dieppe raid was by troops specially detailed to the commandos for training and experience and they will be used for instructors, both in Britain and the United States."

Similar training already is being given to soldiers in their country, he said, notably to the first special service force, made up of both Americans and Canadians, at a camp near Helena, Mont.

The Americans detailed to the commando training in Britain, Patterson said, were commanded by Brigadier General L. K. Truscott Jr., who was a member of the staff of Lord Louis Mountbatten, the commando chief.

Commenting on the recent arrival of large numbers of American troops in Egypt, Patterson said American forces in the Middle East were largely technical troops, but included armored force units and a considerable number of air force men.

against the armor plating of our craft.

The E-boats kept up a running attack for 20 minutes. The night was alive with streaking tracers.

The Germans held a couple of houses near the top of the slope and occupied some trench pill-boxes. At the top of their level they were able to pour fire into the smoke of the boats including ours.

Several bursts from machine-guns struck me in the middle of our craft. The boat's ramp was lowered to permit the men with me to get ashore, but the German fire caught those who tried to make it.

The remainder crouched inside, protected by armor and pouring a return fire at the Nazis.

The Canadian shooting was dead-on, and half a dozen men in steel helmets and field gray uniforms toppled from the windows to the ground.

Other Germans made the mistake of trying to change their positions. Only to be caught when sighted by the royal sharpshooters armed with Bren guns.

Caught by the unexpected intense Nazi fire, the Canadians fought a heroic battle from those craft that were still nosed up on the beach.

I lay behind a slimy bit of plating as heavy bullets cut through it a couple of feet above my head.

An officer sitting next to me was firing his gun. He got off a magazine and a half, killed at least one Nazi, and then was hit.

EYEWITNESS

As the light brightened we saw six Spitfires flying high overhead. We were still admiring them when there was a roar of planes to port and two Focke-Wulfs attacked.

They swept over us with every gun firing, and ours answering theirs. One climbed out of the barrage, a second wavered and slid into the sea.

"Let's go and see the fun," said the captain after the tank transports had run in to landings.

We steamed through the smoke and in the early sunlight saw the burning houses of Dieppe and the rattle of rifle fire and the chatter of machine-guns.

Shells from the four-inch guns of British destroyers began to whistle overhead.

Scenes Hotels Rated

Watching through field glasses you could see them smash into a row of hotels, once sacred to honeymooning Britons, along one side of Dieppe's main boulevard.

Slowly the British gunners brought the hotels down around the ears of the German machine-guns and riflemen they sheltered.

As the buildings disintegrated under the shelling you could see allied troops moving forward, running and pausing to fire.

Periodically we were strafed by Nazi fighters. When we finally cut off, squadrons of Bostons flying very low were sweeping inland to bomb the second line of German defenses.

Hard and dangerous in the summer air we heard the broken beat that characterizes the motor of heavy German bombers.

Four Dornier 17's flying at 8,000 feet in echelon, headed toward the long lines of British ships opened fire and tracer bullets cut sharp patterns into the blue sky.

The Dorniers looked big and very black as they roared closer. Our little ship jumped under the recoil of her orichon (anti-aircraft gun) and machine guns.

The leading bomber swerved slightly and out of its belly tumbled four bombs. You could see them dropping slowly ahead and to port. They landed with explosions that nearly lifted us out of the water. The second and third bombers dropped their loads, but anti-aircraft fire drove off the fourth.

The Bombs Miss

The bombs missed their targets but by now everyone was watching the Dorniers. The first was blazing from hits by anti-aircraft shells as the others were hotly pursued by three Spitfires.

The first fell flaming into the sea near shore. The next two tried desperately to evade the fighters which hung like black crosses above them. There were furious bursts of machine-gun fire, then one after the other the two Dorniers turned lazily over, burst into flame and fell into the sea.

The cheers of sailors on other ships could be heard faintly across the water.

After that there was a steady rain of bombs. Our ship shivered and shook. But RAF fighters pressed their attacks and few of the German bombers got a chance to make their run and take careful aim. I saw only one small boat sunk by the bombs—and I saw 17 German planes shot down as payment.

Our ship was ordered to take the wounded off a tank landing craft which had been hit by German field guns while landing its tanks and troops on one beach. While we were lying alongside, the greatest air fight of the day developed.

Planes Fill Sky

The sky was literally covered with fighters and bombers. Many more were flying so high we couldn't see them. I counted 49.

Special to The Star
DELAWARE, Aug. 20—Two Delaware tire dealers have been cited for violation of rationing regulations and their cases now are in the hands of the state office of price administration, local rationing board officials announce. The dealers allegedly altered purchase certificates issued to Delaware car owners, selling them tires for which no authorization had been made. The tires have been reclaimed. Irregularities in handling sugar purchase certificates by two grocers in Delaware county have resulted in similar charges brought before the state officials, the rationing board reported.

Manpower Shortage in Defense Areas Cited

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 20—War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt said today that 19 per cent of the total volume of war production contracts awarded between May 1 and June 20 went to areas where the labor supply already was inadequate. An additional 55 per cent went to areas of prospective labor shortages while only 17.5 per cent was directed toward areas where there was a surplus of workers, he reported, declaring that much greater attention must be paid to the labor supply factor in awarding contracts. At the same time, McNutt cautioned against any large movement of war workers currently laid off because of raw materials shortages and allied difficulties, and said these lay-offs had not lessened prospects of a developing labor stringency.

SEVEN OHIOANS RAID DIEPPE

Parents and Wives Proud of Their Kin in American Rangers.

By The Associated Press
Families of seven Ohioans who participated in the first All-American bombing of Nazi-held Europe were proud of their sons and husbands today—and two reported premonitions that their soldier heroes had joined in the raid on Rouen, France. The men came from colleges, from a night club, a restaurant and from industry.

They were: Lieutenants William L. Heckman of Wapakoneta, James T. Watson of Utica and Donald A. Walters of Painesville, and Sergeants Warren J. Ewing of North Baltimore, John J. Drougas of Zanesville, Henry Wojciechowski of Cleveland and Alvin J. Kulakowski of Toledo.

When she heard of the Monday night attack, Lieutenant Walter's bride was so sure he was among the raiders that she celebrated even before receiving confirmation.

CITES LOSS IN TAXES OF MILLION A DAY

Senator George Declares Delay Costs Heavily.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 20—Senator George (D-Ga.) indicated today that the government was losing more than a million dollars a day because increased excise taxes have not been put into effect, and declared the pending tax bill "should have been in the statute books by last March or April."

But even so, the chairman of the finance committee told reporters, the loss is not more than one-third or one-half that of last year, when the treasury officials estimated a similar legislative delay was costing about $3,000,000 a day.

"Far more important than the loss of excise revenues," George said, "is the fact that the new tax law must be written and on the books before the taxpayers can adjust themselves to its terms."

The daily excise tax loss is lower this year than last, he explained, because most of the contemplated new excise money will come from increased rates on articles already taxed, and because the federal government now buys—tax free—about half of everything produced in the country.

War Plant Sewer Nearly Complete

sewer tunnel for the city, the ordinance plant will pay the municipality for sewage treatment on a schedule of rates based on the volume handled.

The third phase of the work, development of the sewer and drainage system on the plant area, is also well along toward completion, although some phases of this work will not be completed until later.

Area Water Service. The fourth phase, which is only partially related to the sewer program, is that of bringing adequate water supply facilities to the plant, and work on this part of the program is approximately 90 per cent completed.

The Marion Water Co. is already sending water to the ordinance plant area through a connection at North State street, and temporary connections soon will be made at Park and Ballentine avenues. These will soon give the plant access to water at the rate of 1,100 gallons a minute and this service will continue until the job is completed. Eventually the plant will be able to handle easily its expected normal requirements of a million gallons a day, and will have capacity through its new mains to handle four times that volume during possible emergencies.

To bring in its water supply from the Marion Water Co., the ordinance plant is building 10,500 feet of 18-inch water main that will connect with one of the water company's feeder mains at Kenton avenue and Silver street. This run, north over Euclid avenue to Fairground street, east on Fairground street to the Lukens Chapel road and north from there over an irregular course to the war plant. It will serve a large area of the plant.

Work Done Speedily.

The main sewer being built westward on Fairground street and eastward Main street on Friday, Aug. 13. Despite predictions of experts that the job would take much longer, the Christopher Construction Co. of Euclid, O., building the main, laid the line across Main street, backfilled the trench and replaced the pavement in seven hours. Sand was used as a backfill to insure complete compaction at once and to permit the pavement to be put back immediately.

Construction of the main is done by a crew of about 30 workers and progresses at the rate of about 100 feet a day in the built-up areas. When the work moves out into the more open sections and can be built along the edge of the pavement in areas where there are few houses, it is expected to move along as rapidly as 400 feet a day.

Transit pipe, made of asbestos cement, is being used for the water main. It comes in 13-foot sections and joints are made with asbestos cement couplings and rubber gaskets. The pipe is tested for 200 pounds internal pressure. The transit pipe is not as rigid as a material as the ordinary cast iron pipe ordinarily used for sewer mains.

Asbestos water for use in emergencies to fight fire will be stored in reservoirs on the war plant.

Probable Completion Date.

Construction work in the war plant area is proceeding rapidly and it is expected the water distribution system will be completed by Dec. 1.

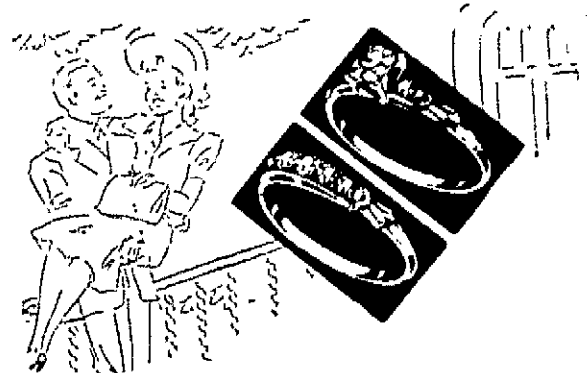

The 18-inch main will be connected with the Marion Water Co. feeder line by about Oct. 1, if the present schedule of work is maintained.

The main is built at depths ranging from three and one-half to four and one-half feet underground—that is the distance from the top of the main to the surface of the ground. Considerable rock was encountered in the vicinity of Main and Fairground streets, and it was necessary to make excavations with air hammers and small quantities of dynamite.

Officials of both Hunkin-Conkey and Holabird & Root said Marion city officials and the Marion Water Co. cooperated with the war plant builders in the water and sewer projects and that their help speeded along the work.

(This article has been approved for publication by Major John S. Bear, commanding officer, Holabird & Root.)

CUYAHOGA COURT PROBE LAUNCHED

Elyria Shooting Brings Bar Investigation.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 20 — An inquiry into Cuyahoga county court conditions was planned today as a result of an Elyria gun battle that killed a policeman and Nathaniel Spuriel, Cleveland criminal, and revealed the fatal beating of a young Cleveland woman.

President Glen O. Smith of the Cleveland Bar association and Fred W. Zimmerman of the Cuyahoga County Bar association said their organizations would launch an inquiry to determine why Spuriel, in view of a long criminal record, was freed while appealing from conviction in Cleveland's "Jitterbug vice cases."

Spuriel was killed after fatally wounding Patrolman Howard Taft of Elyria Tuesday night in a gun battle resulting from a minor traffic accident. Police later discovered the nude body of Doris McConnell, 28 and white, stuffed in the trunk of Spuriel's car. Coroner S. C. Ward of Elyria said she had been beaten to death.

Spuriel, a Negro, was the convicted key character in the "jitterbug" vice cases, involving the debauchery of four white girls. He had served two days of a nine-month sentence when he was released on bond pending hearing of an appeal.

Seven men and five women, including Spuriel's 20-year-old wife, have been detained for questioning in Mrs. McConnell's death.

BRAZIL ACTS TO CURB AGENTS OF GERMANY

Suspected Spies Rounded Up Following Ship Sinkings.

By The Associated Press
RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 20.—The sinking of five Brazilian coastal ships recently, which has brought Brazil into undeclared conflict with the axis, was the result of "brazen operations of Nazi spies who informed on planned troop movements," a high official of the government navigation line asserted today.

While Brazilian authorities indicated this nation's intention of battling axis aggression but refraining from an outright declaration of war, a general roundup of spy suspects was pressed in coastal cities.

Among those held was Wilhelm Koehn, head of the German tourist bureau in Brazil and regarded as one of the most important Nazi operators in Brazil.

"Brazilians will know how to fight decisively and with or without arms will know how to die for Brazil," Air Minister Joaquim Salgado told an audience clamoring for action even as the nation's warships and planes combatted the sea for raiders in recent days with a possible loss of more than 600 lives.

DIEPPE

air cooperation, in battle tactics and in landing methods.

3. Prospects of establishing a permanent bridgehead for landing an invasion army now can be assessed.

4. The real strength of German land and air defenses in western Europe now probably is known to the allied high command.

One informed air source also stressed the blow to the German air force in the nine-hour battle. Probably one-third of the Nazis' fighter strength in western Europe was destroyed in one day's fighting, he said.

Performance of United States-built Mustangs—the P-51 single-engined North American fighter reputed to be the world's fastest—was, picked out for particular praise by British commentators.

Flown by the RAF, the Mustangs got their first major test in combat against the Germans' tough Focke-Wulf 190's and were said to have given a gratifying performance in "zero level" strafing of enemy defenses.

Informed Britons jeered at Nazi claims to have inflicted "very high casualties in killed and wounded," to have captured 1,500 prisoners or to have destroyed 200 armored cars. Some tanks, however, were known to have been lost.

Also without confirmation, the Nazis listed three destroyers, two torpedo boats and four transports as allied sea losses.

Germans Put Allied Losses at 1,500 Men

By The Associated Press
BERLIN (FROM GERMAN BROADCASTS)—AUG. 20.—The German high command said today that the British, American, Canadian and French forces which attacked Dieppe yesterday lost 1,500 men in prisoners alone, along with many dead and wounded, against 400 German casualties. (These and other of the Berlin claims of all shipping and aerial losses in the commando-raider raid were far out of proportion with the allied announcements.)

The German communiqué said the attacking force lost 15 ships sunk by shore fire and bombing and 19 others damaged. It gave allied plane losses at 112 and said 35 German planes were lost.

The German press featured front page stories of the Dieppe engagement under large headlines which characterized it as "a new catastrophic defeat for the British" and as proof that the British and their allies "will never have a chance of gaining a foothold on the channel coast for any length of time."

1-B DRAFT LISTS ORDERED DROPPED

Men To Be Reclassified as 1-A or 4-F.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 20.—The order abolishing selective service classification 1-B means that most Germans deferred because of minor physical defects will be reclassified 1-A for induction.

Edward E. Baker, chief of inspection for draft selective service, said today.

An order from national headquarters ending the "limited quarters" designation and ordering all but the totally unfit reclassified as available for military service is effective today.

But the reclassification, to be completed by New Year's day, will not begin until Sept. 1.

Cdr. H. E. Boucher, chief medical officer for selective service in Ohio, reported that 20 per cent of the Ohio men originally examined for induction were placed in the 1-B group and another 20 per cent in 4-F as totally unfit for military service.

He explained, however, that many 1-B's had been reclassified either into 1-A or 4-F, adding that "most many" of the remaining 1-B's would be found totally unfit for military service.

Some of the men originally classified 4-F have been reexamined and placed in 1-B or 1-A, Boucher declared.

Edward C. Paulus, 65, of 520 Ballentine avenue, died Wednesday afternoon at his home after an illness of six months.

He was born April 3, 1877, at Chillicothe, Ohio, to Henry and Anna Schmauer Paulus, both natives of Germany.

UNION CO. PRISONER OF JAPS RETURNING

Plain City Woman Leaves for N. Y. To Meet Husband.

Special to The Star
MARYSVILLE, Aug. 20.—Mrs. Paul C. Chandler of Plain City, left Tuesday night for New York to meet her husband, Capt. Paul G. Chandler of the U. S. Marines who is aboard the exchange ship, Gripsholm, which is returning U. S. prisoners of the Japanese from the Far East.

The Gripsholm left New York Tuesday from Rio de Janeiro stating that it was on the ship.

Mrs. Chandler and her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Chandler of near Plain City, had previously received a report that Capt. Chandler was on the exchange ship. The letter, however, was the first confirmation.

Having been taken prisoner at Shanghai at the opening of Japanese hostilities, no direct word had been received from Capt. Chandler until Tuesday's letter arrived. Mrs. Chandler, a Russian girl whom Capt. Chandler met in Shanghai, came to the United States to live with her husband's parents 21 months ago. Capt. Chandler was connected with the U. S. embassy when he was captured.

Don said he got three "good squirts" at an FW-190 but did not know if they did any damage and so he made no claims.

"It was a wonderful show," he continued. "I saw an FW-190 get a direct hit with an anti-aircraft shell about 400 yards in front of me and all that was left were little black pieces falling to the ground."

A portion of Gallagher's dispatch at this point was stopped by the censor in London.

The only complaint of the American pilots who started flying on regular patrols at dawn yesterday was that all had stiff necks.

Second Lieutenant Harry Robb, 23, of New Philadelphia, O., said, "I never twisted and turned and looked behind me so much in my life. They were coming from all directions."

Robb, still in his life preserver and just in from the morning patrol yesterday told me that the sky was full of fighters "dog-fighting by flights." He said, "I thought the days of dogfighting were gone but they are doing it by lights instead of singly."

"He came in diving, I turned and caught him with a four second burst," he said. "He spun down 2,000 feet, seemed to regain control for a moment then started spinning again. I think I got the pilot but I couldn't wait around and see him crash."

Flew With Others
The Americans with Hill and Dean flew in groups with Belgian and Canadian fighters and with two British units. The light accounts for eight and a half planes destroyed, 10 probables and 30 damaged.

One of the best records of the war was turned in by a Polish squadron which destroyed nine German planes and probably three others.

The American and British pilots agreed that the Germans seldom joined in combat except when forced to fight. The Nazis, they said, concentrated on bombing and strafing ships in the Dieppe harbor.

One glimpse of fighting on the ground was enough for both the British and American pilots.

"Boy, I wouldn't have been down there for a million dollars," said Lieut. Robert English. "We were off by half the tail end of the ship rolled over twice and out of control in the air."

But English finally righted it and brought it home.

Lieut. Earl Reichert, 27, of Mansfield, O., said he never had anything I've seen in this war, even by planes flying thousands of feet lower.

Major Fred M. Dean, 25, of St. Petersburg, Fla., said the destruction of the Abbeville field almost immediately affected the terrific air fight over Dieppe.

"There was a right smart shortage of FW-190's over the harbor after the fortress got through," he said. "The Germans had to move back to more remote flying fields and fly almost as far to battle as we did."

Dean said he got three "good squirts" at an FW-190 but did not know if they did any damage and so he made no claims.

"It was a wonderful show," he continued. "I saw an FW-190 get a direct hit with an anti-aircraft shell about 400 yards in front of me and all that was left were little black pieces falling to the ground."

he would accompany their expedition, offering him higher wages. But the Indian snook his head and glances, with apprehension, at the mountains in the south.

Sandy turned to Gil: "Maybe we can pick up porters farther along the river."

Helen had come out of the trees. "If we don't start soon the mosquitoes will have me eaten," she said.

Sandy glanced at her quizzically, thinking as he had so many times, that this was no "I, the Helen Brotherly. Or for a lone man or woman, who had not trained for the hardships."

He said dryly, "If we don't run into anything worse than mosquitoes we'll be lucky. But climb in that rear since. Maybe the brutes won't be so bad there."

The Indian stayed to push them off. Sandy went ahead, Helen and Gil following in the other canoe.

With no fanfare whatever they slipped off the muddy bank and turned out into the river, pointing upstream. Almost at once, it seemed, they were part of a turbid, quiet, veritable stream between two black walls of mystery—a thread with a life and laws of its own.

lights burned in them and nothing moved, they had a ghostly quality which harmonized with the silent river and its dark banks of tropical foliage.

At each village Sandy swung close to the shore to inspect the cannocks beached there. The Zapo-tec Indian had described Tyra's cannocks as having prows sharper than most. Also, Sandy knew he could tell them by their loads. He wished he knew more of Tyra's plans. It would make everything simpler.

Just as he was beginning to wonder how much longer his arms could swing the paddle, he rounded a curve and caught a glimpse of another village. He let the canoe drift back while he watched Tyra was on the bank.
He could tell her walk. Her Indian hereabouts were lifting something which looked like a sleeping bag from a canoe.

Sandy interrupted Gil as he came up and reported his observations.

"We'll return to the first likely looking camp site. It must be at least half a mile from the village, because we don't want the Indians to find us and tell Tyra that we're camped below her."

Gil asked "How long do you think we can keep up this hide-and-seek game, chief?"

"As long as luck is on our side."

Incurable Romantic
They turned the canoes, then, and glided back the way they had come. Sandy took one side of the river, Gil the other. Presently Gil called that he had found a place. Sandy paddled across.

Back of the muddy banks the ground rose to form a dry knoll covered with grass and shaded by fern palms and coconut trees.

"Looks pretty good," Sandy declared when he had walked around it a little. "We can't be too choosy, anyhow."

Helen joined them.
"Isn't it beautiful!" she breathed.
"Like a motion picture set for a tropical picture! Oh, I'm going to enjoy this trip I've always wanted to see things like this."

Gil grinned at her good-naturedly. "I'm afraid you're one of these incurably romantic women, Helen. All you can see is the pretty praps."

"And what's wrong with that?"
Helen demanded.

No one bothered to answer Gil and Sandy were already on their way back to the river to unload what they needed from the cannocks.

It took a short time to set up the three insect-proof pup tents and unroll the sleeping bags. They handed Helen her personal belongings but warned her to keep everything inside the tent or she might find her clothes full of unwelcome guests. They did not unroll any of the provisions. Instead they sat in the canoes and munched some of the tortillas that they had ordered prepared by the hotel cook before starting up the river. It was a good chance, anyhow, but it filled the stomachs.

There was some discussion about posting a guard for the cannocks. But the voices of the primary by hanging one end of a bag rope to the canoes and the other end to his ankle.

"It's too warm to sleep in the bag, anyhow," he said. "I'll sleep like a shrimp. It's a startle monkeying with the canoes the rope will jerk and awaken me."

But they did not think the cannocks would be molested. The river was devoid of life.

Helen crawled into her tent and Gil showed her how to keep herself bug-free.

"You'll feel as if you're better," he said. "I'll tell her humorously. But it's better than having all the attention in the bush racing over you."

Sandy was last to retire into his tent. He took another turn down to the river to make certain the canoes were safe. Fairly light snowed in the east and a sterile rustling in the trees indicated the bad life was beginning to stir. He had scarcely reached his tent when the canoes began to move, but his tired muscles and brain rejected the idea and he soon sank into unconsciousness.

When Sandy awoke the sun was high. He crawled from his tent to see Helen standing under a mango tree trying to knock down one of the rich, peach-colored fruits.

Why was Martin so anxious to read the article published in "Life"? Bowen's declaration, (which we are prepared to prove to be made) that he would run us out of Marion, east what it would, and Mr. Martin's close confab with the "Life" editor, and his going with the attack on my trial last spring, paraded a knife of the paper reflects the range of their predictions. Was some alarmist reported that the Southern army was about to march on Washington, Mr. Index went to the other extreme and predicted that the war would be settled before the next session of congress.

MUD HENS

They lost a double-header to Columbus, 1-0 and 7-1. It was the third straight setback at the hands of the Brewers, who jumped into second place, a game and a half behind pace-setting Columbus, which lost to Toledo.

Toledo tossed out Columbus 3-2, scoring all of its runs in the sixth inning on three hits, a sacrifice and an error. It was the 15th victory for Archie McKam, Toledo coach. Harry Brecheen, Toledo's 18th triumph, drew a 4-3 decision over Louisville.

At Indianapolis, Ray Post had to wait 13 innings before getting a 4-3 decision over Louisville. Rocky Rube Fischer stopped St. Paul with five hits to give Minneapolis an 8 to 1 triumph.

Broken Leg Detoured Lee Ballanfant To Career As Major League Arbiter

Texas Was on Way to Playing Career When Accident Occurred in 1925.

LEE BALLANFANT

Wide World Features
Wiry son of the Lone Star state, Lee Ballanfant was a spirited infielder on the way up to the big leagues until a broken leg in 1925 led to his playing retirement. With undaunted courage, he studied umpiring and made the big leagues as an umpire instead of a player, debuting in the National league at the start of the 1936 season.

All Texans aren't tall, and Lee's product picture in his den at home shows him peering coyly out from under the brim of a 10-gallon hat, presented to him by the governors of the Texas Centennial exposition in Dallas on the occasion of his promotion from the Texas league to the senior major league of baseball. It was also a token of the esteem in which his fellow-citizens hold him, because though born in Waco, Tex., Dallas has been his home city since boyhood. In winter, Lee is a shrewd cotton-buyer for a Dallas firm, combining his business operations with plenty of outdoor life, training bird-dogs and hunting.

His first hitch in baseball was as the star shortstop of the Martin Tigers, semi-pro champions of Dallas, in 1914. Lee was just 15 years old at the time, so a brilliant career loomed ahead of him. World War I interrupted his baseball career. He enlisted in the Army 10 days after war was declared in April, 1917, serving overseas with the 36th Division.

His umpiring career began in the Texas association, but he quickly moved ahead. He had two years in the Lone Star league, one in the West Texas league, then joined the staff of the Texas league in 1930, serving six years in that circuit before signing his contract with President Frick.

The Marion Grey-R-R A. C. baseball game scheduled to be played Sunday at Lincoln park has been cancelled, Harry Adams, Greys manager, said today. It was cancelled to make way for the Amateur Day program, Adams said.

G. O. P. STREAMLINES STATE CONVENTION

One Day Session in Columbus
Set for Sept. 30.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 20 — Ohio's war-time Republican platform convention, to be held here Sept. 30, will be streamlined.

It will be a one-day convention, instead of the traditional two, and there will be no alternate delegates.

Thus fewer person will be absent from jobs important to the war effort, delegates will be away from workaday tasks, a shorter time and wear on automobile tires will be reduced.

The Republican state central and executive committee yesterday elected Ed D. Schorr of Cincinnati chairman, renamed all other officers and set the convention date. Regular convention delegates will number about 350.

Schorr appointed a convention arrangements committee to draft a temporary platform and select a keynote speaker.

Its members are Edward C. Stanton of Cleveland, chairman; Fred H. Johnson of Zanesville; Miss Margaret Baker of Springfield; Mrs. Gladys B. Coffin of Cincinnati; Ward C. Cross of Ash-

Woman Thought Bonus Meant Sugar Was Free

By The Associated Press
KEENE, N. H.—Told that No. 7 coupon of her sugar rationing book represented a "bonus" of two extra pounds of sugar, one woman here took the word literally, and wound up at her rationing board demanding clarification.

"Just the No. 7 coupon a bonus?" she asked.

"It is, madam," a board member replied.

"Well," she said, "the store-keeper made me pay for it."

VETERANS OPPOSE PENSION INCREASES

Spanish War Men Hit Draft Dodgers.

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, Aug. 20 — After voting down a resolution for pension increases in the interest of wartime economy, the United Spanish War Veterans' 44th national convention today demanded that "no one be permitted to profit through national adversity or misfortune."

In a strongly worded resolution, the convention declared: "Favoritism has no place in the program of our all-out war effort."

"Draft dodgers and inexperienced and impractical theorists with a political pull belong in the ranks and not in the swivel chairs. The time for trial and error has passed."

"We urge closer cooperation on the part of our commanders of the army and navy units in the zones of operation. The lack of cooperation caused the disaster at Pearl Harbor."

Cornelius S. Kelly of Chicago was expected to be chosen commander in chief of the Spanish War Veterans without opposition. Next year's convention will be held in Boston.

Mrs. Ethel Cummings of Richmond, Va., was named head of the veterans' auxiliary.

According to a Danish government committee, potatoes fed to pigs should be boiled if they are to produce high quality pork.

By The United Press
PORTLAND, Ore. — They're sending shirts to congress now, figuring that congress may soon amend the federal income tax law to the worst for the "white collar class," five Portland housewives anticipated their husbands' "losing their shirts" and so promptly mailed the shirts in advance to the Oregon delegation in congress.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"JUST IMAGINE you're the original Sleeping Beauty to be aroused by the kiss of your prince," Katherine said a few minutes later when she put me into bed, tucked a blanket around me and shaded the light.

But I did not see the light go out, and was fast asleep until Dicky's pressure on my hand awakened me.

"Had a good nap?" he asked, then "Dad and Ronald are in the next room," he whispered.

When I had dressed I found him in the living room in earnest colloquy with my father, Ronald, and one of my father's guards.

"The first thing," my father was saying, "is to get out of the hotel without Milner or his henchmen suspecting our destination. Milner and I, in different cars now near the entrance with guards in each, will start almost together, and the cars which Milner has in readiness will trail us.

"Five minutes exactly after we leave this room, do you, Richard, with Margaret and Ronald, come down stairs to the front entrance, and take a taxi which the doorman will indicate to you. Both driver and doorman are ostensibly Milner's men, but secretly belong to our side.

Wild Goose Chase

"The taxi driver will take you to the Pardee hotel, which fronts on two streets. You will walk through the hotel to the opposite door, get into a waiting cab that bears this number," handing a piece of paper to Dicky, "and the driver will take you to a corner near the highway, where you will find the armored car which you will take to Weirhampton.

"In the meantime," he went on, "Milner and I will be playing a gorgeous game of hide and seek with Milner's trailing cabs, and will eventually lead them back here. By that time," he concluded, "you will be well on your way to Weirhampton, and you, Mar-aret, you can get some more sleep on the way up."

But I had no desire for sleep. I was fairly starved for a talk with my husband.

Ronald tactfully said he wanted to ride in the front seat with the driver, and through the long night journey I sat with my head against Dicky's shoulder.

The trip back from Weirhampton with Carolyn was devoid of incident. After her first meeting with Ronald, when she flung herself into his arms and sobbed hysterically, she nestled close to him all the way back.

But when, according to my father's directions, Ronald left her with Dicky and me when we reached the Underwood home, her eyes widened with resentment and alarm.

"You're not going to leave me, Ron?" she protested tearfully. "I must, dear," he said. "Mr. Spencer wishes to see me for a little while, then I'll be back."

Carolyn looked at Dicky and me with clearly evident suspicion as she went with us up the steps of the Underwood home.

"I wonder," she said darkly.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Diseases in Childhood

YOUR CHILD can be protected by immunization against the following diseases and should be vaccinated at the age indicated:

Whooping Cough—6 months.

Diphtheria—12 months, with Schick test at 6 years to determine if revaccination is necessary.

Scarlet Fever—3 to 4 years.

Typhoid Fever—8 to 12 years.

This is a right up-to-date list published in 1941 by Dr. John A. Kolmer, Professor of Medicine at Temple University, Philadelphia. In short, it is conservative, authoritative and squares with the latest knowledge.

In the article yesterday, I said that the greatest danger of infancy and childhood was the series of contagions each individual must pass through. This danger is greatly increased as soon as the child enters school because there so many new human contacts are made, carriers of germs from other households. Against many of these, some of the worst, medical science can furnish immunity by vaccination. It is the greatest boon medical science has to offer humanity.

Let us review the list.

Whooping cough is today the greatest baby-killer on earth. This honor used to be reserved for diphtheria, but since the universal vaccination against diphtheria in children of preschool and school age began about 20 years ago diphtheria is a rare disease. Scarlet fever has become so mild, for some reason nobody understands, that the death rate in the whole population is today 1 to 100 of what it was 50 years ago. This is not due to wide vaccination against Scarlet fever, but seems to be a natural example of ebb and flow. Scarlet fever may be a disappearing disease, or it may be due for an increase in virulence.

At any rate, that leaves whooping cough and measles as the chief killers and whooping cough is a far more dangerous disease than measles. For measles there is no known method of vaccination or prevention, so perhaps the best thing is to let the growing child have an attack and get it over with.

Whooping cough does damage by its complication—pneumonia and the after-effects on the central nervous system, leading to speech disorders, larynx and laryngitis, and mental tardiness.

Prevention of whooping cough is possible with the Sauer vaccine. It must be given early in life because whooping cough is a disease of infancy. No bad results have been reported from its use.

The vaccine is given in three doses hypodermically at intervals of one to three weeks. The immunity lasts five to eight years, which covers the period of greatest susceptibility. There are about 10 to 15 per cent failures, but the disease is so fraught with danger that these should be risked.

The Green Camp Victory club held a wiener roast at the Glenn Sparks home last Wednesday. Members played horseshoe and worked on project books. Arrangements were made for a theater party at the next meeting.

WRITES A WORD WILL

By The United Press

NORRISTOWN, Pa. — Register of Wills John H. Hoffman believes he has just about the shortest will on record. When Reinhard Z. Nice died he left his $10,000 estate to his cousin, Jacob Z. Nice. His will, undated and unwitnessed, and written on a small piece of tablet paper, read: "Jake everything is yours."

El Salvador ranks fourth in world production of coffee.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, Aug. 21

THERE ARE signs in the lunar operations, pointing to some conflicting and contradictory conditions, which may incite critical situations to be dealt with cautiously, decisively and shrewdly as well. The menace may be of a secret, subtle and sinister nature and should be met and disposed of with kindred strategem and craftiness. Intrigue arising from individuals as well as large organizations, secret, political or diplomatic bodies may challenge prudence and alertness. However, there is promise of help and understanding from superiors.

Those whose birthday it is may be under the menace of intrigue, fraud, duplicity and secret enmity, arising from secret and sinister sources. It may be necessary to be vigilant, shrewd, cautious and ready to meet these undercover and malicious attacks with similar craft and strategy. It would be wise to cultivate those in authority, employers and superiors, frankly revealing threatening situations.

A child born on this day may attain success and good fortune, against secret enemies or impostors, mainly because of the good will and confidence of its superiors.
